

Morven Park is a 1200 acre park on the northern edge of Leesburg. Home to both 19th century Maryland governor Thomas Swann and Virginia governor Westmoreland Davis (1918-1922). In addition to the Davis home, which began life as a farmhouse in 1781, the park also houses an equestrian center. For more information, see www.morvenpark.org.